WITH GRATITUDE TO HAKADOSH BARUCH HU, the Cincinnati Community Mikveh is pleased to present this Personal Mikveh Calendar to the women of the Cincinnati community. We hope that it will help enhance adherence to the laws of taharas hamishpocha, family purity.

We wish to acknowledge the following individuals, who contributed so much of their time and talents to this collaborative effort:

- Alter Raubvogel
- Eli Reidler, for calculating sunrise and sunset times.
- The Mikveh Board
- Our Mikveh Administrator, Miriam Goldstein

How to use this calendar

THIS CALENDAR INCORPORATES BOTH THE JEWISH AND the secular calendars. Each page represents one Jewish month, and each day's information is contained within a rounded frame.

A Jewish calendar date begins in the evening and consists of one night and one day. Each date's space in this calendar is therefore divided into two parts. The shaded area represents nighttime (the "night ona"), which begins at sunset. The unshaded area represents daytime (the "day ona"), which begins at sunrise.

The illustration below shows one complete Jewish date—Sunday, the first of Teves. Note the Hebrew letter "aleph," and the secular date, January 1. Also note the division of the date into night (here, Saturday night) and day.

Daily sunrise and sunset times for Amberley Village are listed at the top of every day's space; these times have already been adjusted for standard/daylight time. In our example, sunset on Saturday night is at 5:24 and 57 seconds; sunrise on Sunday is at 7:57 and 22 seconds.

If a woman were to get her monthly period on this Saturday evening, she would mark it down (after Shabbos) in the shaded area, the "night ona" of the first of Teves. This would mark the first day of her period, and she could now make all of her other calculations.

Notes can be kept on each page or in the chart near the front of this calendar. Every woman should record:

- Her monthly period (in order to anticipate the "days of separation" for the following month).
- The actual day of her hefsek tahara. (The day of her hefsek tahara will determine the weekday of her immersion—one week later, after nightfall.)

The Shiv'a Neki'im Laws of the Seven Clean Days

FROM THE DAY THAT A WOMAN BECOMES A NIDDAH, she must count a minimum of five days. Then, when all bleeding has stopped, she may make a hefsek tahara.

She should:

- Wash the appropriate area.
- Examine herself internally, in a careful, thorough manner, with a pre-checked, white cotton cloth (3" x 3" minimum).
- Complete this examination before sunset.
- Also before sunset, insert a pre-checked white cloth and leave it there until nightfall (50 minutes past sunset).

If both of these cloths remain free from any questionable colors, she may begin to count her shiv'a neki'im, seven clean days, the following morning.

Note: Someone who has difficulty counting the clean days should consult a Rav.

During the seven clean days, she should:

- Examine herself twice daily—once in the morning (after sunrise) and once in the evening (before sunset).
- Wear white underwear day and night.
- Use white bed linens.

In addition to the hefsek tahara, it is crucial that the examinations (bedikos) on both the first and seventh days be done during the daylight hours. (Morning bedikos should be made after sunrise.)

The seven clean days must be consecutive, i.e., without interruption caused by finding a disqualifying color. A woman who encounters difficulty with her examinations should consult a Rav.

Remember: Make the required examinations, and make them on time!

Important—Ask questions! Consult a Rav when necessary; don't decide for yourself!

Anticipating Dates of Separation Basic Laws

1. A period is considered regular if it appears:

- On the same day of three consecutive Hebrew months, either all three times by day, or all three by night; or—
- After three consecutive equal intervals, all three by day or all three by night.

2. A woman with a regular period need only separate on the day of her established regularity. If there is a change from her established date, she must separate on the new date, as well as on the (formerly) regular date. If she establishes a new regularity, she must separate on the new date. If she experiences variations in her cycle, she should consult her Rav.

3. A woman with an irregular period must separate from her husband on the following dates:

- The same day of the Hebrew month when her last cycle started. If her period started on the second of Nissan, she separates on 2 Iyar.
- The final day(s) of the interval(s) of her two previous periods. If there was a 29-day interval between her last two periods, then she counts 29 days and separates on the twenty-ninth day. The day she first sees blood and the first day of the next period are included in the interval. Separation on these two dates may be during day hours or night hours, depending on when the previous period came. Some extend this separation to include the preceding day or night.
- The thirtieth day from her last period. The day she first sees blood counts as the first of these thirty days. There are those who separate for a period of 24 hours, from sunset to sunset. Some separate on the thirty-first day, as well.

4. Nighttime is from sunset to sunrise; daytime is from sunrise to sunset. One should note the time of day when bleeding began, in order to calculate anticipated dates of separation.

5. On each of the days on which a woman anticipates her period:

- She is forbidden to have relations with her husband.
- She must examine herself.

If a woman anticipates that her period will come during the day, she should examine herself once at the beginning of the day and once at the end of the day. If she anticipates that her period will come at night, she should examine herself once at the beginning of the night and once at the end. If the anticipated date passed and she did not examine herself, she should examine herself upon remembering. If there is no sign of bleeding, she is permitted to her husband.

There are those who have different minhagim (customs) regarding these laws. A woman should keep those minhagim she has accepted.

This is only a brief guide.

If you have any questions, consult a Rav.

To learn more about these laws, or for additional educational opportunities, please call Miriam Goldstein at (513) 351-0609.

The Cincinnati Community Mikveh is a non-profit organization dedicated to maintaining a kosher mikveh for the entire Cincinnati Jewish community. We also provide educational programs. Our warm, accomodating administrator can explain the mikveh's operations. The helpful and knowledgeable mikveh attendants can answer your questions about the mikveh's proper use.

There are two easy ways to schedule an appointment and pay for mikveh admission:

- Via the Internet at www.cincinnati-mikveh.org
- Confidential phone (information and appointments, at least 24 hours in advance): 513-351-0609

Getting Here

Our state-of-the-art facility is located in Amberley Village (45237), at 2255B Section Road.

Women's access and parking is via the driveway off of Farm Acres Dr., behind CZE.
« Scan this QR code
or go to <http://goo.gl/maps/bEZdW>.

Men's access is via the parking lot of Congregation Zichron Eliezer (CZE).
